

BEST PRACTICE 1

Title of the Practice: To promote Hindi language usage in the Campus

Objectives of the Practice: Wide use of Hindi language fosters a sense of national identity and cultural awareness in the students. Hindi language acts as a bridge that unifies the diverse cultures of India and creates a sense of social integration.

The Context: Hindi is a unifying language that helps in preserving the cultural heritage while fostering national integration. It serves as a common medium of communication among the diverse population of India.

The Practice: The posters for various events organised in the campus were prepared in Hindi bhasha as well, to promote Hindi bhasha. A campaign, “Meri Bhasha Mere Signature” was organised in the college campus. Various competitions and workshops were organised on promotion of Hindi language. Teachers and students were motivated to use Hindi bhasha in the teaching learning process.

Evidence of Success: For all events, workshops and seminars, posters are prepared in Hindi bhasha also. All official meetings are conducted in bilingual mode. Teaching and interaction with the students is done in bilingual mode.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

Perceptions that Hindi is less prestigious than other languages (like English) may discourage students from using it. Insufficient materials, such as textbooks, online resources, or qualified instructors, hinders effective language promotion.

Notes: The students are motivated by the faculty members in the classrooms to use more and more Hindi bhasha. By leveraging the required resources, colleges can effectively promote the usage of Hindi on campus, enriching the linguistic environment.

BEST PRACTICE 2

Title of the Practice: To promote Women Empowerment in the Campus

Objectives of the Practice: To create a supportive, empowering environment for women on college campus, ultimately leading to greater equality and opportunity.

The Context: Women empowerment in college campus is essential for fostering an environment where female students can thrive academically, socially, and professionally, ultimately contributing to a more equitable society.

The Practice: Programs including poster making competition, inter college women volleyball and cricket tournament were organised in collaboration with women development cell (WDC) of the college. equipping them with the confidence needed to succeed. It will create collaborative and inclusive environment, which will contribute to the overall well-being and advancement of female students.

Evidence of Success: Good participation in women empowerment and gender equality events. An increase in the number of women holding leadership positions in student campus clubs and societies.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required: Many students may not see the relevance of empowerment initiatives. More access to the professionals, trainers, and speakers who can lead workshops and seminars on empowerment, leadership, and career development, is required.

Notes: By prioritizing women empowerment, college not only supports female students but also contribute to a more equitable and respectful campus culture, ultimately benefiting the entire community.
